“ I remember seeing him at Heather and Mitch's wedding. We were getting ready, and AJ decided to start working out. James and I were carried upside-down, dragged along the floor as we held onto his feet, and we spent the whole time laughing and having fun. Then I was called away to get my hair curled. That was the one time I've seen mom wear lipstick, when I learned what fake lashes are and watched how they were supposed to be applied, and the last time I remember seeing him.
