Growing up in the San Francisco Bay Area , Janet attended Atherton High School, and later moved to San Jose where she earned an Associate arts Degree from San Jose State.

Even though she was born completely color blind and legally blind with less than 10% of her vision she was incredibly independent all through her life.

She was passionate about music and had a large collection from African cultural music to the San Francisco rock music that made the city famous.

She loved books and movies as well. She was a great supporter of endangered wildlife and donated to many causes that worked to save them and their habitat. She loved San Luis Obispo having made it her home for over 50 years . She will be greatly missed by her sister Nancy, family and friends.
