

Mr. Tony Lee Marks Jr.

November 30, 1979 - April 15, 2023

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ Since day one of knowing Tony he was always his own character and personality. Goofy, super smart, handy with whatever task he was, super supportive and blunt friend. I knew him through my wife but we became friends and at one point I worked for him. Even when we clashed or bumped heads, we could still laugh like nothing happened. This was a very painful loss for our family, I hope to share another beer with you friend.

Lawrence Armstrong - May 13, 2023 at 04:59 PM

“ Tony,

Tomorrow is your celebration of life and I can't be there cause plane tickets cost too dang much. Lawrence and I will be celebrating you from over a thousand miles away. I wish we could be there to help hold up Amber and your girls. I know it's gonna be a really hard day for them.

It's gonna be a hard day for all of us that love you so much.

I miss you friend.

Kristin Armstrong - May 13, 2023 at 12:15 AM

“ The first time I went fishing for crayfish was with Tony. It was the most satisfying fishing I've ever done. We went down to the creek with fishing line, some raw bacon, and a cooler. We just tied a little piece of bacon on the string and put it in the water. They grab on and you just pluck them out of the water and shake them off into the cooler. They let go of the bacon so you can use it for the next one. We filled that cooler and ate like kings! He taught me how to clean them and cook them. My bleeding heart freaked out when they started making noise when we boiled them. Apparently it's just air escaping their shells but I thought they were screaming and I cried. LoL He was so patient and everyday was a new adventure.

Kristin Armstrong - May 13, 2023 at 12:03 AM

“ Tony could do one of the coolest tricks I have ever seen in my life. Hands down. You know how some people are double jointed and can move differently? Well Tony had this amazing ability to make his hiccups go away. That’s right, he could just stop them right away. He would take a deep slow breath and just say the words “hiccups, go away” and they would just stop. Coolest trick ever!

Kristin Armstrong - May 11, 2023 at 08:20 AM

“ 2 files added to the tribute wall

Kristin Armstrong - May 10, 2023 at 09:47 PM

“ Tony was such an amazing soul. We have been friends for 24 years and my life has changed for the better because of him in my life. He was always so brave about trying new things. He even challenged me to go outside of my comfort zone. With him I’ve eaten crickets and whole little fish (tail, fins, eyes) the whole dang thing. I drew the line when he wanted to try fermented duck eggs from the Asian market. I’ll never forget watching him gag after trying it. He loved concerts and traveling. He would always say he was a shy guy but he sure loved being out in a crowd doing his own thing.

He was always so much fun. He would pick on me when we watched scary movies together. He would wait until I was sucked in and tense and then he would yell BOO and laugh while jumped off the couch and screamed.

When life was hard or confusing and even overwhelming he was always there to help and listen.

He could grow anything and grow it well. Every time I would visit he would show me his garden with so much pride.

He was an incredible father to his girls. All 3 of them.

I will cherish every memory I have with him for the rest of my life. He truly went too soon.

Tony I love you and will miss you forever. I’m so thankful that our paths in this life have crossed and I was lucky enough to have known you.

Kristin Armstrong - May 10, 2023 at 09:46 PM

Thank you. You've made me cry. You totally have his personality in your words

Kimberly Cattaneo - October 06, 2024 at 08:14 PM