“ I always enjoyed my conversations with Don at the Village Cafe in Arroyo Grande. I work as a Flight Attendant and he told me about his favorite lunch ever in Boston. The week that he passed away, my husband and I saw him at Gina's Italian restaurant. We had a good conversation. He said he had a good life. He told me about the different places he played tennis every week and the good friends he had. I liked Don very much and the the waitress staff at the village cafe miss him also.
